

VOTE FOR POLICE ACCOUNTABILITY ON NOV. 5!

In an unprecedented move, Rochester's City Council unanimously approved putting Police Accountability legislation on the 2019 ballot. The Police Accountability Board (PAB) will be civilian-lead board that will have the power to independently investigate claims of police misconduct. All Rochester City voters will be able to take part in this historic vote for police accountability on November 5!

Please contact us at alliance.pab@gmail.com for more information or visit our website at pabnow.com.

Vote For Police Accountability
on November 5!

PABNOW.COM

VOTE FOR POLICE ACCOUNTABILITY ON NOV. 5!

In an unprecedented move, Rochester's City Council unanimously approved putting police accountability legislation on the 2019 ballot. The Police Accountability Board (PAB) will be civilian-lead board that will have the power to independently investigate claims of police misconduct. All Rochester City voters will be able to take part in this historic vote for police accountability on November 5!

Please contact us at alliance.pab@gmail.com for more information or visit our website at pabnow.com.

Vote For Police Accountability
on November 5!

PABNOW.COM

From 2001 to 2016, there were 923 allegations of excessive force against RPD:

The Chief of Police has has final say in all cases and only sustained 16 out of the 923 allegations:

No officers were fired for excessive force during this time.

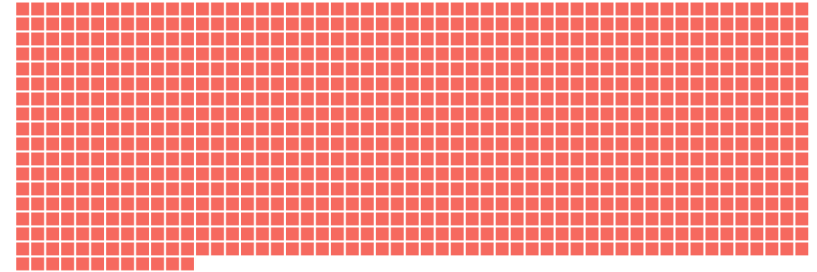

The Police Accountability Board would break the conflict of interest in our current system by establishing an oversight system that is independent of RPD. No longer will outcomes be dependent on RPD officers investigating their colleagues and the Chief of Police deciding cases.

Just like every other public worker, police need to be held responsible when they break the public's trust. It's not right to allow a handful of people to act without consequences.

Rochester should join Syracuse, NYC, Newark, Oakland, and many other cities, which already have strong police accountability boards.

 Vote for the Police Accountability on November 5!

From 2001 to 2016, there were 923 allegations of excessive force against RPD:

The Chief of Police has has final say in all cases and only sustained 16 out of the 923 allegations:

No officers were fired for excessive force during this time.

The Police Accountability Board would break the conflict of interest in our current system by establishing an oversight system that is independent of RPD. No longer will outcomes be dependent on RPD officers investigating their colleagues and the Chief of Police deciding cases.

Just like every other public worker, police need to be held responsible when they break the public's trust. It's not right to allow a handful of people to act without consequences.

Rochester should join Syracuse, NYC, Newark, Oakland, and many other cities, which already have strong police accountability boards.

 Vote for the Police Accountability on November 5!